Leadership Advisory & Organizational Effectiveness

SECTION 1

Organization Snapshot

Legal Name

Grant Thornton Advisors LLC (operating entity); Grant Thornton LLP (attest entity); Grant Thornton Global Advisors (international holding company)

Headquarters Chicago, Illinois

Founded 1924

Ownership

PE-backed: New Mountain Capital (60% majority stake since May 2024), CDPQ and OA Private Capital (minority investors). Alternative practice structure: Grant Thornton LLP (regulated CPA/attest services) and Grant Thornton Advisors LLC (PE-owned advisory/non-attest services). Grant Thornton Global Advisors holding company for international consolidation.

Footprint

Primarily U.S. operations across multiple offices. Expanding internationally: Grant Thornton Ireland (acquired January 2025), agreements for UAE, Luxembourg, and Cayman Islands operations. Advanced talks with Netherlands. Creating first PE-backed global accounting platform.

SECTION 1b

Company Overview

Grant Thornton is the seventh-largest accounting firm in the U.S. ($2.4B revenue). In May 2024, New Mountain Capital acquired a 60% stake - the largest PE investment in a U.S. accounting firm. The firm now operates as two entities: Grant Thornton LLP (CPA/attest) and Grant Thornton Advisors LLC (business advisory). In January 2025, CEO Seth Siegel stepped down and COO Jim Peko became CEO. The firm is executing an aggressive international consolidation strategy, having acquired Grant Thornton Ireland and reaching agreements for UAE, Luxembourg, and Cayman Islands operations.

Financial Health & Growth Stage

Understanding Grant Thornton Advisors's financial position and trajectory is critical to framing any engagement conversation.

Revenue: $2.4B in FY2023 (fiscal year ending July 31) - record year and 7th-largest U.S. accounting firm by revenue. [2024/2025 revenue not publicly disclosed since going private.]

Growth Trajectory: PE capital providing acquisition war chest and technology investment. International consolidation (Ireland, UAE, Luxembourg, Cayman Islands, Netherlands) will add significant revenue. 56 new partners, principals, and managing directors appointed in July 2024 - signaling organic growth investment.

PE Economics: New Mountain Capital's 60% stake acquired at undisclosed valuation. Deal funded acquisitions, partner buyouts, retirement obligation buyouts, and technology investments. Additional debt financing supplementing PE equity. PE hold period typically 5-7 years, implying exit preparation by 2029-2031.

Key Financial Pressures: PE-speed growth targets vs. organic growth pace of partnership model. Need to demonstrate value creation through revenue growth, margin expansion, and international scale to support eventual PE exit at premium multiple.

SECTION 3

Leadership Team Profiles

The following contacts are recommended as primary outreach targets - champion-level leaders who feel the organizational pain daily and can sponsor McChrystal internally.

Jim Peko - CEO, Grant Thornton Advisors LLC [PRIORITY TARGET]

Long-tenured principal at the firm; led transformational investments in core business segments and recent transactions

Outreach rationale: New CEO 14 months into the most complex transformation in the firm's history - needs organizational alignment tools and leadership team operating rhythms to execute PE-backed growth strategy across dual entities and expanding international footprint

Additional leadership team members relevant to the engagement:

Seth Siegel - Senior Advisor (former CEO)

Led PE transaction with New Mountain Capital; deep institutional knowledge

Steve Tennant - CEO, Grant Thornton Ireland; Executive Committee member

Irish accounting/advisory leadership

[New Mountain Capital Representative] - Board Member / PE Sponsor

PE operating and value creation

SECTION 4

Organizational Culture & Structure

Culture and structure are often where McChrystal Group finds the deepest leverage. The following signals indicate how Grant Thornton Advisors operates today and where friction exists.

Organizational Structure

Dual-entity alternative practice structure: Grant Thornton LLP (CPA/attest, regulated) and Grant Thornton Advisors LLC (advisory, PE-owned). Grant Thornton Global Advisors serves as international holding company. Executive committee includes domestic and newly added international leaders. Practice areas include audit/assurance, tax, advisory services.

Culture Signals

Partnership Heritage: Grant Thornton's culture was built over 100 years as a partnership - consensus-driven, collegial, relationship-focused. Partners shared economics and governance. This culture attracted and retained professionals who valued stability, predictability, and peer relationships.

PE Transformation Impact: The New Mountain Capital transaction fundamentally changes the social contract. Partners bought out lose equity stakes. Remaining partners face PE-style performance metrics, growth targets, and hold-period timelines. The shift from "owner-operator" to "employee of PE-backed entity" is culturally disorienting for many.

CEO Transition Signal: Seth Siegel's departure 8 months after the PE deal close may signal cultural friction at the top. His replacement by COO Jim Peko (an internal promotion) suggests the firm prioritized continuity over external transformation leadership.

Growth Culture Signals: Appointment of 56 new partners/principals in July 2024 - one of the largest partner classes in firm history - signals aggressive growth and talent investment. International expansion (Ireland, UAE, Netherlands) creates opportunities for ambitious professionals.

Risk Factors: Competitor recruiting during transformation uncertainty. Professional services talent is highly mobile. Deloitte, EY, BDO, RSM will aggressively recruit Grant Thornton professionals who feel the culture is changing.

SECTION 5

Recent News & Trigger Events

The following developments from the past 18 months create urgency and provide natural conversation entry points for engaging Grant Thornton Advisors.

1. 2024-05-31 - New Mountain Capital closes 60% majority stake - largest PE investment in U.S. accounting firm history

Transforms governance, growth trajectory, and cultural expectations for 10,000 professionals

2. 2025-01-08 - CEO Seth Siegel steps down 8 months after PE deal close; COO Jim Peko becomes CEO

Leadership transition during maximum transformation complexity - new CEO needs organizational alignment tools immediately

3. 2025-01-03 - Completed acquisition of Grant Thornton Ireland; created Grant Thornton Global Advisors holding company for international platform

First international consolidation deal creates integration template - needs operating model for cross-border coordination

4. 2025-01-01 - International expansion agreements reached for UAE, Luxembourg, and Cayman Islands; advanced talks with Netherlands

Multiple simultaneous international integrations compound organizational complexity

5. 2024-07-29 - Appointed 56 new partners, principals, and managing directors - one of largest partner classes in firm history

Aggressive talent investment signals growth mandate; new partners need alignment with PE-backed strategy

SECTION 6

McChrystal Fit Assessment

Clear McChrystal fit with CEO transition, PE-backed cultural transformation, and international integration. However, revenue ($2.4B) is at the lower end of ICP sweet spot, professional services culture may resist military-framed advisory, and New Mountain Capital may prefer PE-specialized operators. The gap in available advisors (Big Four excluded) creates an opportunity, but the engagement requires positioning McChrystal's framework in partnership-culture language.

Primary Problem

Transforming a 100-year-old partnership culture into a PE-backed, acquisition-driven international growth platform
 - while managing a CEO transition, dual-entity governance complexity, and multiple international integrations simultaneously

Best McChrystal Capability Fit

Organizational design and leadership development - McChrystal's Team of Teams model can bridge the gap between PE-speed execution demands and partnership-culture consensus traditions, building shared consciousness across an expanding international platform while enabling empowered execution at the practice and country level

Likely Objections to Engagement

Professional services firms may view military-origin advisory as culturally misaligned with their partnership ethos
 New Mountain Capital may prefer to work with PE-specialized operating partners rather than external organizational advisors

Revenue ($2.4B) is below the ICP sweet spot midpoint - engagement size may be smaller than typical McChrystal deals

Jim Peko may prefer to build his leadership approach organically rather than bringing in external advisory

Competitive Advisory Landscape

McKinsey / Bain - likely advise New Mountain Capital on value creation strategy and accounting sector thesis

Deloitte / EY / PwC - structurally excluded as direct competitors; cannot advise Grant Thornton

Korn Ferry - possible engagement on leadership assessment and talent retention

Heidrick & Struggles - may be advising on CEO transition and board composition

SECTION 7

Conversation Entry Points

These questions are designed for a Senior Partner's first conversation. Each opens a thread that naturally leads to McChrystal Group's capabilities without a direct pitch.

1. How are you thinking about preserving the collaborative partnership culture that your clients value while executing at the speed your PE partners require?

Acknowledge the core tension without taking sides - position McChrystal as understanding both the PE growth mandate and the value of partnership culture

2. With Ireland integrated and UAE, Luxembourg, and Netherlands in progress, what's your operating model for maintaining service quality and culture consistency across an expanding international footprint?

Show awareness of the specific international integration challenge and imply that a repeatable model is needed

3. How is the leadership team coalescing around the new strategic direction - especially with international leaders like Steve Tennant joining the executive committee?

Acknowledge the CEO transition and expanding leadership team without implying dysfunction

Recommended Meeting Framing

Frame as a peer conversation about organizational transformation in professional services - McChrystal Group understands the tension between speed and culture, having helped organizations navigate transformations where execution tempo needed to change without destroying the relationship-based qualities that made them successful.

SECTION 8

Brand Insights & Market Positioning

Brand strategy reveals organizational priorities and coordination challenges. The following analysis connects Grant Thornton Advisors's market positioning to potential McChrystal engagement opportunities.

Brand Value & Competitive Standing: Grant Thornton is the 7th-largest U.S. accounting firm, positioned in the "mid-tier" between the Big Four (Deloitte, PwC, EY, KPMG) and smaller regional firms. The brand has traditionally stood for "the agility of a mid-size firm with global capability" - a positioning now amplified by the PE-backed international consolidation.

Brand Identity Evolution: The PE transaction is fundamentally reshaping Grant Thornton's brand. The firm is evolving from "collaborative mid-tier alternative to the Big Four" to "PE-backed growth platform with global ambitions." This brand evolution creates both opportunity (attracting ambitious professionals and clients who want Big Four capability without Big Four bureaucracy) and risk (alienating professionals and clients who chose Grant Thornton precisely for its partnership-culture, mid-tier feel).

Brand Threats: The dual-entity structure (LLP + LLC) creates potential brand confusion - which entity does the client engage with? International consolidation risks diluting the brand if acquired member firms have different quality standards or market positioning. Competitors (BDO, RSM, Baker Tilly) will position against Grant Thornton's PE ownership, arguing that PE-backed firms prioritize short-term returns over client relationships.

Major Brand Investments: International expansion is the biggest brand investment - creating a genuinely global platform from what was primarily a U.S.-centric firm. The 56 new partners/principals signal talent investment. PE capital funding technology modernization to enhance digital service delivery.

McChrystal Connection: The brand challenge is an organizational alignment problem - the firm needs its 10,000 professionals to embody the new brand promise (global, ambitious, growth-oriented) while preserving the existing brand equity (collaborative, client-focused, agile). McChrystal's shared consciousness model can align the workforce around the evolved brand identity.

SECTION 9

Deep McChrystal Group Fit Analysis

This is the strategic case for pursuing Grant Thornton Advisors. It synthesizes findings from all previous sections into a comprehensive engagement thesis with specific fit dimensions, expected outcomes, stakeholder mapping, and a phased pursuit strategy.

9a. Fit Dimensions

Fit Dimension 1: Partnership Culture to PE-Speed Execution Transformation

Grant Thornton is attempting something unprecedented in professional services: transforming a consensus-driven partnership culture into a PE-backed growth machine operating under hold-period timelines. The firm's 10,000 professionals were trained in a partnership model where decisions are deliberated, career paths are predictable, and growth is organic. New Mountain Capital's 60% stake demands acquisition-driven growth, rapid international expansion, technology modernization, and margin improvement - all at a speed incompatible with traditional partnership governance. McChrystal's Team of Teams model is uniquely positioned for this challenge: building shared consciousness (everyone understands the new strategic direction and why) while enabling empowered execution (partners and teams can act quickly without waiting for consensus).

Competitor displacement logic: McKinsey advises PE firms on value creation plans; Deloitte consults on accounting firm operations. Neither has experience transforming a partnership culture from the inside. McChrystal addresses the human operating system - how do you get 10,000 professionals who chose a partnership-culture career to embrace PE-speed execution without destroying the client relationship quality that makes the firm valuable?

Fit Dimension 2: CEO Transition During Maximum Organizational Change

Seth Siegel, who led the PE transaction as CEO, stepped down in January 2025 - less than 8 months after the deal closed. New CEO Jim Peko (former COO) inherits the most complex transformation in the firm's history: international acquisitions, structural separation into two entities (LLP + LLC), partner buyouts, technology investments, and cultural change. CEO transitions during major transformations are high-risk moments. McChrystal's leadership development capability can accelerate Peko's team's alignment and establish new operating rhythms during this critical period.

Competitor displacement logic: Spencer Stuart and Heidrick & Struggles advise on CEO transitions. McChrystal goes beyond individual leader coaching to build the leadership team dynamics and organizational operating model that makes the new CEO effective across a 10,000-person organization undergoing simultaneous structural and cultural transformation.

Fit Dimension 3: International Consolidation Operating Model

Grant Thornton is the only U.S. accounting firm pursuing PE-backed international consolidation - acquiring member firms in Ireland, UAE, Luxembourg, Cayman Islands, and Netherlands under a new holding company

(Grant Thornton Global Advisors). Each acquisition brings a different national culture, regulatory environment, and operating model into a single platform. This is a multi-country integration challenge that requires exactly the kind of cross-functional coordination across geographic boundaries McChrystal's framework enables.

Competitor displacement logic: Big Four firms have internal integration capabilities for their own global networks. Grant Thornton, as the first mid-tier firm attempting PE-backed global consolidation, has no internal playbook for this. McChrystal provides the operating model for maintaining shared consciousness across a rapidly expanding international footprint.

Fit Dimension 4: Dual-Entity Governance Complexity

The alternative practice structure - Grant Thornton LLP (CPA/attest, regulated) and Grant Thornton Advisors LLC (advisory, PE-owned) - creates a structural governance challenge. Two entities serving overlapping clients with different ownership, regulatory requirements, and growth mandates must coordinate seamlessly. Client relationships span both entities. McChrystal's experience with coordinating structurally separated but operationally intertwined organizations directly applies.

Competitor displacement logic: PwC and EY have operated in similar dual structures for decades but built them gradually. Grant Thornton created this structure overnight as part of the PE transaction, without the decades of institutional muscle memory. McChrystal can accelerate the development of cross-entity coordination capabilities.

9b. Cumulative Case - Why Grant Thornton Is a Top Pipeline Opportunity

Grant Thornton represents a first-of-its-kind transformation in professional services. No major accounting firm has attempted PE-backed, acquisition-driven international consolidation while simultaneously restructuring into a dual-entity governance model AND managing a CEO transition. Every dimension compounds the others: the CEO transition creates leadership uncertainty during the most complex period in the firm's history; the international acquisitions require integration capabilities that a partnership culture has never needed; the dual-entity structure demands coordination between legally separate organizations serving the same clients.

Reinforcing signal chain: PE acquisition (May 2024) -> alternative practice structure created -> partnership buyouts begin -> CEO departure (Jan 2025) -> new CEO inherits transformation -> Ireland acquisition completed -> UAE/Luxembourg/Cayman deals in progress -> Netherlands talks underway -> 56 new partners/principals appointed -> growth mandate vs. partnership culture tension -> integration complexity compounding with each international acquisition

Revenue potential: $400K - $600K initial leadership alignment and operating model diagnostic (3-4 months), expanding to $1.5M - $2M for firm-wide Team of Teams implementation covering domestic operations and international integration, with $500K - $750K/year ongoing advisory as each new international acquisition requires cultural integration into the platform.

9c. Enterprise Issues & Organizational Challenges

1. Partnership Culture Shock Under PE Ownership For decades, Grant Thornton partners operated under a model of consensus governance, predictable career progression, and organic growth. The PE transaction fundamentally changes the social contract - partners who are bought out lose equity; those who remain face performance metrics and growth targets foreign to partnership culture. This culture shock is the single biggest risk to the transformation. McChrystal can build purpose and alignment around the new strategic direction without destroying the collaborative culture that makes the firm effective.

2. CEO Transition at the Worst Possible Moment Seth Siegel's departure 8 months after the deal close creates a leadership vacuum during maximum organizational change. New CEO Jim Peko must establish credibility, build his leadership team, and execute a transformation playbook he inherited but didn't design - all while managing partner anxiety about the PE-backed future. McChrystal's leadership development programs can accelerate Peko's team formation and organizational alignment.

3. International Integration Without Institutional Capability Grant Thornton has never integrated international member firms into a centralized platform. The Ireland acquisition was first; UAE, Luxembourg, Cayman Islands, and Netherlands are in various stages. Each brings different regulatory frameworks, cultural norms, and operating models. The firm needs a repeatable international integration capability that doesn't yet exist. McChrystal can design the operating model for cross-border coordination.

4. Dual-Entity Client Handoff Complexity The LLP (attest) and LLC (advisory) serve overlapping clients who don't care about the internal corporate structure - they want seamless service. But the two entities have different ownership, regulatory constraints, and incentive structures. Without explicit coordination mechanisms, client experience will degrade at the handoff points. McChrystal's cross-functional alignment methodology directly addresses this.

5. Talent Retention During Transformation Professional services firms compete intensely for talent. The PE transaction, CEO change, and structural uncertainty create attrition risk. Competitors (Deloitte, EY, BDO, RSM) will recruit aggressively against Grant Thornton during this period. McChrystal can build engagement through purpose and clarity, reducing the uncertainty that drives departures.

6. Technology Modernization Across a Professional Workforce PE capital is funding technology investments to improve efficiency and enable growth. But professional services firms are notoriously resistant to technology-driven workflow changes - partners and managers have ingrained habits around client service delivery. McChrystal's change management through shared consciousness approach can accelerate technology adoption.

9d. Expected Outcomes from McChrystal Group Engagement

1. Unified Strategic Narrative and Operating Rhythm McChrystal would establish a firm-wide communication architecture and operating cadence that connects the new CEO's strategic vision to every office, practice area, and international operation. Measurable result: achieve 85%+ of partners reporting understanding of and alignment with the transformation strategy within 6 months (vs. typical 40-50% during major PE-backed transitions).

2. Accelerated CEO and Leadership Team Effectiveness McChrystal's leadership programs would build high-performing team dynamics around new CEO Jim Peko and his executive committee, including newly integrated international leaders. Measurable result: establish functional leadership team cohesion within 90 days, reducing the typical 12-18 month "forming-storming-norming" cycle by 60%.

3. Repeatable International Integration Playbook Design and pilot a standardized integration operating model for each international member firm acquisition. Measurable result: reduce time-to-full-integration for subsequent international acquisitions from 12+ months to 6-8 months.

4. Client Experience Continuity Across Dual Entities Implement cross-entity coordination mechanisms ensuring seamless client service across LLP and LLC. Measurable result: maintain client satisfaction scores (NPS or equivalent) at pre-transaction levels through the first 18 months of the dual-entity structure.

5. Partner Retention and Engagement Build purpose-driven engagement that helps partners see the PE-backed transformation as opportunity rather than threat. Measurable result: keep voluntary partner attrition below 5% during the first 24 months post-PE transaction (vs. industry average of 10-15% during major ownership changes).

9f. Opportunity Thesis

Strategic Signal Convergence - Why Now PE acquisition closes (May 2024) -> alternative practice structure created -> partner buyouts begin -> CEO departs (Jan 2025) -> new CEO Jim Peko takes helm -> Ireland acquisition completed (Jan 2025) -> UAE/Luxembourg/Cayman deals in progress -> 56 new partners/principals appointed (Jul 2024) -> growth mandate accelerating -> each international acquisition adds integration complexity -> CEO needs operating model NOW

The convergence is acute: the firm is 18 months into the PE transaction with a new CEO, an expanding international footprint, and a dual-entity structure - all creating simultaneous organizational complexity without an established operating model for managing it.

The Structural Paradox - Why McChrystal, Not McKinsey McKinsey and Bain advise PE firms on accounting sector investments and value creation plans. But Grant Thornton's challenge isn't strategy - New Mountain Capital has a clear growth thesis. The challenge is getting 10,000 professionals trained in partnership-culture consensus to execute at PE speed. Deloitte can't advise (direct competitor). EY can't advise (direct competitor). The Big Four are structurally excluded. McKinsey can design the value creation plan but can't build the cultural operating system that makes partners embrace it. McChrystal fills a gap that no other advisor can credibly occupy: transforming the human operating system of a partnership culture without destroying the collaborative client-service quality that makes the firm valuable.

Phased Engagement Hypothesis - Land and Expand

Phase 1 (Months 1-3): CEO and Leadership Team Alignment - $300K - $500K Scope: Work with new CEO Jim Peko and his executive committee (including international leaders like Steve Tennant from Ireland) to establish leadership team operating rhythms, decision-making frameworks, and communication architecture for the transformed organization. Include assessment of partnership culture dynamics and PE-speed execution readiness. Why this beachhead: New CEO in the first months of a massive transformation needs rapid leadership team alignment. This is a bounded, high-urgency engagement that demonstrates immediate value.

Phase 2 (Months 3-8): Firm-Wide Operating Model and International Integration - $1M - $1.5M Scope: Design and deploy firm-wide communication and coordination architecture. Build repeatable international integration playbook and pilot with next acquisition. Implement cross-entity (LLP/LLC) coordination mechanisms.

Phase 3 (Months 8+): Ongoing Transformation Advisory - $500K - $750K/year Scope: Integration support for each new international acquisition. Partner engagement and retention programs. Ongoing leadership development as the firm scales.

Competitive Displacement Strategy Big Four competitors are structurally excluded from advising Grant Thornton. McKinsey/Bain likely advise New Mountain Capital on the investment thesis. McChrystal enters through the firm's internal leadership - Jim Peko, the CHRO, or practice leaders - not through the PE firm. Position as a leadership and organizational effectiveness partner (different budget line than strategy consulting). The pitch: "New Mountain has the growth strategy; your strategy advisors have the value creation plan; we build the organizational operating system that makes your 10,000 professionals execute it."

Multi-Threaded Pursuit Map

Thread 1: CEO Jim Peko - Leadership Alignment Target: Jim Peko, CEO Angle: "You've been CEO for [X] months during the most complex transformation in your firm's history. How are you building alignment across a leadership team that spans two legal entities and expanding international operations?" Vector: Direct outreach; CEO peer networks; McChrystal personal relationships in professional services

Thread 2: CHRO - Culture and Talent Target: Chief Human Resources Officer Angle: "PE-backed partnership transformations create unique talent retention risks - partners who feel the culture is changing may look elsewhere. We help organizations maintain engagement through purpose and clarity during maximum change." Vector: HR leadership conferences; professional services industry CHRO networks

Thread 3: New Mountain Capital - PE Value Creation Target: New Mountain Capital board representative Angle: "Organizational execution is the #1 risk to value creation in professional services PE deals.
